THE ROYAL END -BY-

HENRY HARLAND

Author of "The Cardinal's Snuff Box," "My Friend Prospero," etc.

This delightful story, the author's last has the characteristic charm of his other novels. It is light, it meanders, it is dilatory, if you like, but it has the delicate touch and the suggestive atyle which appeal to those who do more than gallop through a novel.

An interesting feature of "The Royal End" is the fact that Mrs. Harland collaborated with her husband in its production, and after his death brought it to completion.

The body arrived from Ni-antic on the 10.20 train and was taken in charge by Henry Allen & Son.

Adventure of an Auto. Two young men and a big red touring car gave the residents and pas-sersby on upper North Main street just this side of the tannery some excitement and something of a scare Friday afternoon about 3 o'clock, One of the young men was undoubtedly taking a lesson in running an automobile, and turning out to avoid a pass-ing team headed directly toward a telegraph pole. The car was going at a gair apped and a collision seemed inev-itable, but the other young man grasped the wheel and turning it sharply around, just grazed the pole. Just missing a child who was standing on he sidewalk by a hair's breadth the was damaged much, and the young men after freeing the car rode away. Fishing Trip.

Four trolleymen, Charles Flansgan, Leon Miller, Napoleon Fournier and John Kinney, the well known starter, started for the Pequot Thursday for a fishing trip but the luck of the party was not of the proverbial sort, and on their return they had six small flat fish between them.

weather, preceded by rain, with slightly lower temperatures.

Observations is New York Herpost, No. 1, held a campfire Friday evening at the Buckingham Memorial, which has not been beaten for patriotic enhanciasm this season. The two companies, under their commanders,
Captain John A. Hagberg and Captain
V. G. Tarbox, and the Spanish War
Veterans under Commander Frank Q. W. G. Tarbox, and the Spanish War Veterans under Commander Frank Q. Smith attended about 90 strong,marchng down from the Armory to the Memorial in a body in time for the sup-per at 8 o'clock, which opened the pro-gramme. This was finely served un-der the direction of Quartermaster Sergeant S. S. Stocking.

An orchestra played during the supper hour and later through the evening, and when the cigars were reached Commander Vine S. Stetson, fight his seat at the head of the room, welcomed all present and presented Bay. C. H. all present and presented Rev. C. H. Ricketts of the Greeneville Congrega-tional church as the first speaker.

Addresses on Patriotism.

Rev. Mr. Ricketts was given a rousaddress upon Patriotism. Lauding the patriotism displayed by the soldier of the revolutionary and civil was, he put the present day question of whether Boys see, also, that the laws are con-stantly disobeyed and disregarded, es-pecially in regard to the Sunday opening of candy stores, and by weakening times in law you are striking a blow at patringham. law you are striking a blow at patriotism. These conditions need correction, and with the right spirit of patriotism we are the ones to correct them. Under the right spirit and right inspiration he could never believe that patriotism would be a lost fashion, the speaker said.

Among these their spring is motte, who purples on Hunt closed with three cheers for Old Glory and the G. A. R., proposed by Captain Hagberg.

T. N. Gilmore of New Haven. After the thundering applause, Commander Stetson introduced Tom N. Gilmore of Admiral Foote post, New Haven, as the next speaker, and he proved a most happy choice on the programme, as he referred in ringing terms to the patriotic spirit of the soldier boys of today, the sacredness of Memorial day, and his veneration for the memory of Governor Buckingham, while he pressed home the duty upon the soldiers exercising their franchise and casting their ballots for clean, honest and upright men, expressing the wish that there might be a such a God-given wave of American patriotism that every young man may become God-given wave of American patriotism that every young man may become the defender of a clean ballot and righteous laws. He was constantly interrupted by applause in his speech, and it continued for several minutes when he had taken his seat.

Captain Hagberg responded for the Third company, also getting a great round of applause, and in his remarks called attention to the spirit of some business men who discharge an embary and that used on the convent has been taken to Bog meadow, to be used on the new dam.

business men who discharge an em-ploye if he secures a day off for mili-tary duty. He asked that the city officials and prominent men become bet-ter acquainted with the military that this spirit might die out.

Post Patriotic Instructor J. Herbert George sang with fine effect "The Va-cant Chair," in commemoration of the death of John R. Cobleigh a week ago, we are losing our patriotism or teaching it to the school children as it ought to be taught. He declared his dislike to seeing Memorial day perverted from this grand purpose for which it was set by a programme of sports, and said of employers to show a partriotic spirit, by a programme of sports, and said that the influx of foreigners was no reason to fear a loss of the spirit of true patriotism, for they had been likened by Beecher to the great alluvial flood of the Nile. Because we allow unworthy men to get into office and because our schoolboys, even, understand that for a man to get into political office he must practically buy his way in, are signs of a loss of patriotism, he said; are reasons for the boys and girls asking if this is the home of the free and the land of the brave.

Boys see, also, that the laws are consequently of show a partriotic spirit, and he was loudly applauded. After a song, "The Little Bronze Button," by a member of the Pifth company, General William A. Afken of the Citizens' corps was called upon, rising amid a strong rally of hand clapping. General Aiken spoke with great appreciation of what took occasion to express his ideas of the class of employers that had been referred to by the two captains. Men with that spirit, he said, he despised, and he pledged his word to bring the meter up at the first opportunity he matter up at the first opportunity be-fore the board of trade.
